DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1-4, 12-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sato U.S. Patent Number 6,128,318.

Regarding claims 1 and 12, the claimed maintaining a synchronization state of a number of components of a distributed system is anticipated by method of synchronizing a “global” cycle master node (Figure 1, element 22) to cycle slave nodes (element 20) in a network. See column 1, lines 35-39 and lines 66-67, column 2, line 1 and column 4, lines 7-14. The claimed synchronization according to a number local clock cycles recorded between successive occurrences of a global synchronization signal provided to the components is anticipated by cycle reset signal asserted at a prescribed rate which is a multiple of one cycle of the cycle slave node.

Regarding claims 2 and 13, the claimed entering of synchronization state only after observing a predetermined number of successive local clock cycles between instances of global synchronization signal is anticipated by cycle reset signal asserted at a prescribed rate which is a multiple of one cycle of the cycle slave node.

Regarding claim 3, the claimed local clock generating circuit providing local control signals is anticipated by method, in response to cycle reset signal asserted at a rate multiple of one cycle, utilizing logic circuitry in the cycle slave node to determine a timer offset value and using this value to adjust a value of a cycle master node cycle timer (element 38).

Regarding claims 4 and 14, the claimed local clock generating circuit providing local control signals even after an instance of the global synchronization signal is observed at time instant corresponding to one local clock cycle more or less than the number of clock cycles is anticipated by in response to cycle reset signal asserted at a rate multiple of one cycle, utilizing logic circuitry in the cycle slave node to determine a timer offset value and using this value to adjust a value of a cycle master node cycle timer (element 38).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 5-11 and 15-22 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
